

So they'll know about Jesus

Whooton wrote to Sean, "my dad is not a pilot, much as I may wish. He's helping translate the Bible into Salasakan Quechua (pronounced Keechua)." The Salasakan Quechuas came to Ecuador from Bolivia 500 years ago after the Spanish conquered much of South America.

Many Salasaka make a living by selling tapestries and other handcrafts. Like all people around the world, they need to know God loves and cares for them, and that Jesus died to save them.

Photo source: viiseskogen

Listen to God!

Acts 1:6-9

Just before Jesus returned to heaven after his resurrection, he told his followers that they would now take God's message, not just to Israel, but to the whole world. And that is what people like Whootan's family have been doing ever since. There are still more than 353 million people around the world that don't have any part of the Bible in their own languages (2,250 languages) so there is still a lot of translation work to be done.

Can you help translate the following Quechua words into English? You will need to unjumble the letters in brackets to find the English words.

Papo (ttaopo) _____

Cushma (trhsi) _____

Chacra (marf) _____

Wasi (eohse) _____

Ayllu (lyifam) _____

Wawa (ybba) _____

Talk to God!

We know Lord that you want everyone in the world to know how much you love them. We pray that you will help and guide those who are translating the Bible into different languages.