

HIDDEN HELPERS

“Sean, let’s help mum by putting compost onto the vegetable garden,” suggested Kaylee. The compost was full of earth worms, and they were great fun to play with. Earth worms don’t bite (they have no teeth) and don’t sting like some other creatures in the garden so they are safe to pick up and handle. If one gets chopped in half, each half can regrow it’s missing end. Worms keep the garden healthy by eating plant material and turning it into food for other plants and living things. As they tunnel, they loosen the soil and let in needed air. They are the garden’s hidden helpers.

Listen to God!

Matthew 6:1-6

Jesus said that we don’t have to show off or boast, when we pray or do things to help others. If we do it in secret, God will reward us. One way he rewards us is by making us feel good about it.

Find the hidden ways we can help others in the word search.

What do the unused letters spell out?

Did you know that in Gippsland, Victoria, there are giant earthworms that can grow two to three metres long. They are the largest in the world.

Talk to God!

Lord God, please show me ways I can be a good helper to those who need help.
